Passionate Relationship

Come to a weekend seminar, and learn to communicate, learn to look deeply inside. Practise sharing yourself, intimately and honestly.

Being in relationship is never easy. Oh, we start them off and everything seems OK, but as days turn into years many people discover a certain deadness had crept into their relationship. Conversations are strained or non-existent. Odd behaviours are cropping up — keeping secrets, having separate friends, sexual experimentation, loss of trust, and especially, loss of passion.

Remember passion? Remember what it was like to actually want to be with your partner? Where, we wonder, did the passion go?

The truth is, it was never there in the first place. We confused novelty and sexual charge with depth and passion. As time goes by, the thin veneer cracks. We wonder, now what?

We offer you our Couples workshop, Passionate Relationship. In this workshop, you will learn to see with new eyes and reverse the stagnation and anger that curse most modern relationships. You will have the opportunity to learn and to practice new ways of being, acting and engaging your partner. You will learn and practice:

- excellent communication
- self revelation
- making meaningful contact, both physically and emotionally
- breath work & bodywork designed to release “stuffed emotions”
- relationship building
- honesty, openness and intimacy
- core belief reprocessing
- feedback as you explore your life choices

We will provide theoretical models, and many opportunities to practice what you learn. We will focus on being present, in the body, using breath work as the anchoring and basic technique. We will practice excellent, clear, focussed communication, building from several models, and being present, precise and open as we communicate with each other.

We will use various role playing and Gestalt techniques as well as depth and Shadow techniques to allow participants to work through past unresolved issues.

There will be two weekend opportunities: . Each of the two-day seminars run from 9 to 5, with a break for lunch, and the cost is a remarkable $175.00 PER COUPLE.

The location is

Singles are welcome at this event, at the above rate PROVIDED they come as pairs (i.e. bring a friend and split the cost.)

If it is your intent to find yourself and deepen your relationship, I encourage you to come to Passionate Relationship.
